Abstract Because of the possible health effects of particulate air pollution, the Agency has a responsibility to determine the relationship of human exposure to particles with ambient air concentrations. At the urging of the National Academy of Sciences, four studies were begun in 1999 to determine personal exposure of high-risk subpopulations to particles. Three of the studies have completed data collection, but the fourth study will still be collecting data after the July 31, 2002 expiration date of the OMB-approved original questionnaire. The data will be used to help the Agency in its determination of the proper regulatory approach to ambient particles.
